

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this amendment.

Mr. Speaker, ASEAN has proven a great example for developing countries around the world. It was not that long ago, in fact 30 years ago, when these same countries which we laud today for their 30th anniversary were the ultimate in developing countries. They were no different than the developing countries in Africa and in Latin America and elsewhere.

Yet these countries, through a strong support for the economic rights of their people, at the very least the economic rights of their people, have shown that free enterprise and a respect for property rights will indeed bring a fountain of wealth and well-being for the people of the societies that so respect those rights.

ASEAN as well, I might add, has been a force for democracy, although the Members of ASEAN, all of the Members are not, of course, totally democratic. But let us take a look at the fact that the Philippines today has evolved from a country that was in a dictatorship for a number of decades, and now has a strong and vibrant economic situation where they are growing at 5 and 6 percent a year, as well as a strong democracy, along with Thailand whose democracy has been put to the maximum stress, but yet has maintained a slow but, yes, steady pace toward a more open and democratic society. These two countries serve as an example for all of Southeast Asia and, yes, serve as an example for all the countries in the developing world.

Today, many countries in ASEAN, especially Thailand, are going through, but as well as the other countries of ASEAN, are going through an economic crisis, a crisis dealing with their money system. They are learning a lot through this crisis. We would like this amendment today, our expression of good will toward the countries of ASEAN and congratulations, comes at a unique moment for the United States to let these countries know that we consider them our friends, we consider them our partners, we consider them to be people who in the future will have even stronger and closer ties to the United States of America.

So I rise in strong support and ask my colleagues to join me in support of this proposal and this amendment.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California for his timely and cogent remarks. I urge support for House Resolution 282.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H.Res. 282.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SHOWING COMMITMENT OF AMERICAN PEOPLE IN SUPPORT OF DEMOCRACY AND RELIGIOUS AND ECONOMIC FREEDOM FOR PEOPLE OF SOCIALIST REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 231) urging the President to make clear to the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam the commitment of the American people in support of democracy and religious and economic freedom for the people of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 231

Whereas the Department of State Country Reports on Human Rights Practices for 1996 notes that the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam "denied citizens the right to change their government and significantly restricted freedom of speech, the press, assembly, association, privacy, and religion";

Whereas, since May 1997, non-violent demonstrations against corruption and abuse of power at the local level have occurred in Thai Binh Province and perhaps in Thanh Hoa, Hung Yen, Nghe An, and Bien Hoa provinces as well;

Whereas the criminal law of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam is used to punish individuals who are critical of the government, and on April 14, 1997, an administrative decree was signed into law granting enhanced judicial powers to the security forces to place under house arrest or subject to reeducation camps, for up to two years, any civilians suspected of "endangering national security";

Whereas the leaders of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam are seeking to expand trade relations with the United States;

Whereas there is widespread discontent within the foreign business community in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, with some companies pulling out entirely, others freezing new investments, and nearly all complaining about endemic corruption, intransigent bureaucracy, and a lack of clear commitment to legitimate economic reform;

Whereas, in August 1997, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) reported that child labor exploitation is on the rise in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam with tens of thousands of children under 15 years of age being exploited for labor; and

Whereas it is in the interest of the United States to promote political and economic freedom throughout the world: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) urges the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to release immediately and unconditionally all political prisoners, including Dr. Nguyen Dan Que, Prof. Doan Viet Hoat, Venerable Thich Quang Do, Reverend Pham Minh Tri, and evangelist To Dinh Trung, with full restoration of their civil and human rights;

(2) requests the President to make clear to the leadership of the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam—

(A) the firm commitment of the American people to political and religious and economie freedom for the people of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam; and

(B) the United States fully expects equal protection under the law to all Vietnamese, regardless of religious belief, political philosophy, or previous association; and

(3) urges the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam—

(A) to permit all political organizations in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to function without intimidation or harassment; and

(B) to announce a framework and timetable for free and fair elections that will allow the Vietnamese people to peacefully choose their local and national leaders.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRABACHER] and the gentleman from Florida [Mr. HASTINGS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRABACHER].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.Res. 231.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. ROHRABACHER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, this past Tuesday, on our Veterans Day, Vietnamese Communist Party officials in Hanoi confirmed that in the southern province of Dong Nai, 40 miles from Saigon, several thousand people have been involved with clashes, in clashes, with police. Hundreds of women and children have been demonstrating for freedom and human rights outside of government offices, despite a heavily armed police presence in the area.

By all accounts, including a report by the Human Rights Watch organization, the clashes started when the Communist Government intensified repression against the Catholic Church and the popular bishop of the Xuan Loc Diocese. In addition, land owned by the church has been confiscated and sold by corrupt Communist Party officials.

Demonstrations against the corrupt Communist regime have also been occurring in other areas of the country. In north Vietnam, beginning in May of this year, ongoing demonstrations in the Thai Binh Province and a number of other historic Communist Party strongholds show growing public dissatisfaction with the rampant corruption of that country and the lack of freedom of the Vietnamese people.

Recently, new directives and proclamations by the Communist Politburo have tightened State control of all other forms of media and have restricted access to foreign journalists and their translators. The Human Rights Watch/Asia report states, while the Vietnamese Government pursues an open door in terms of their economic policy and continues to woo foreign investments, domestically it is strengthening Communist Party control, repressing dissent, and stifling any development of a civil society.

This resolution urges the President to "make clear to the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam the commitment of the American people in support of democracy and religious and economic freedom for the people of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam."

This resolution calls attention to the proliferation of human rights violations and new policies by the Communist regime that prohibit the 70 million people of Vietnam from achieving a democratic government through free and fair elections. It expresses the strong support of the House of Representatives in support of the rights of all Vietnamese, as well as for the release of all religious and political prisoners.

The resolution requests the release from detention of Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Award recipients Dr. Win Dan Kway and Prof. Dwon Viet Hwat, as well as other senior religious leaders who have been imprisoned by the regime.

My resolution also calls attention to the difficulties that American business people are experiencing in Vietnam, caused by epidemic corruption, and that is exactly what we must expect in a one-party State, as well as the intransigent bureaucracy and the absence of enforceable business law. Of course they are going to have corruption in that situation.

It is especially important at a time when Vietnamese leaders are seeking expanded trade relations with the United States that the President and the Congress make clear that, just as our stock market made a strong rebound in recent days from that downturn we experienced, that the foundation of a strong, resilient economy is an open and democratic society.

It was not too long ago, Mr. Speaker, that people all over Asia were saying the next big jump in productivity, the next tiger in Southeast Asia, is going to be Vietnam. Now when you go to Southeast Asia and throughout the world and you ask people about Vietnam, they say it is never going to work, it never materialized, and it was a big nothing.

Why is this? Why that happened is because there is a relationship, I repeat again there is a relationship, between freedom and peace and between freedom, peace and prosperity.

In Vietnam, there was no freedom and there is no freedom. Thus, the prosperity that is desired by the people, and perhaps even by the Communist Party bosses themselves, is unobtainable. They cannot obtain prosperity as long as there is a lack of freedom, because without freedom of the press or an opposition party, corruption will run rampant.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. ROYCE].

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to express my support for this resolution for which I am an original co-sponsor. I would like to commend the work of my colleague, the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRBACHER], on this resolution. This resolution has been well crafted by the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific, and we commend its chairman, the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER], with us today, and basically this resolution enjoys the strong support of the Committee on International Relations.

It asks the administration to put pressure on Vietnam to improve its human rights record and move toward greater democracy. This is needed because while the Vietnamese Government has undertaken some economic reforms over the last few years, unfortunately it has not matched that record with political and human rights reforms.

As my colleagues have noted, too many Vietnamese suffer from political and religious persecution. Faced with that, the United States needs to take a stand. This is an important and timely resolution. It is all the more critical we keep the focus on human rights as the administration has seen fit to improve relations with Hanoi.

I believe this resolution reflects the democratic aspirations that the Vietnamese people have. It is a worthy resolution that deserves the support of this body.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. HAMILTON and those of us on the Democratic side support this resolution, and I certainly do, and I commend my distinguished colleague and friend from California [Mr. ROHRBACHER] who is its principal author. This resolution restates our commitment to political, religious and economic freedom in Vietnam. It urges the Government of Vietnam to announce a framework and timetable for free and fair elections. It places the Congress of the United States squarely in support of political pluralism and personal freedom for the Vietnamese people.

I urge my colleagues to show their support for these worthy aspirations by voting for this resolution.

I will take a moment of personal parochial privilege to say that when this resolution is passed, and when the position of Congress and the executive branch of government are made known, much of the message will be carried by a former colleague of ours, Pete Peterson, who is from Florida, who not only understands the dynamics of being a prisoner, not only political, but a prisoner of war, and as Ambassador to Vietnam, I am certainly glad Pete is going to be there to help state our position.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Nebraska.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is understandably proud of the past performance and the current performance of our former colleague, the gentleman from Florida, Mr. Peterson, as our Ambassador, and I understand the Floridian pride in him, but I would like to also mention he received his elementary and high school education in Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ROHRBACHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM], a hero of the Vietnam War and a hero of mine, I might add.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would make one correction: There is no such word as "hero." You do what you have to do, and try to survive.

I rise in support of this resolution. One of the most victorious things I think that has ever happened to me is we sponsor an art contest, like many of the Members. A young lady named Foo Lee, a Vietnamese refugee, won that contest. I found out that her mom had actually had to stay back while the whole family escaped in the boat, in a rickety old boat, which the picture was about. If you could see the picture, you would actually have tears in your eyes. You could see the pain in that family.

It took us 2 years to get Foo Lee's mom out of a reeducation camp in Vietnam. She stayed behind, knowing that if the rest of the family was caught, they would be put into this reeducation camp, and not many people survive.

After 2 years, on Christmas Eve, Foo Lee's mom came into San Diego. That is the kind of treatment that you can expect in Vietnam.

I commend Pete Peterson, who asked me to come over just a couple months ago and raise the American flag over Ho Chi Minh City for the first time in many years, in about 25 years. Pete and I and a delegation did so with Hal Rogers.

I want to tell you something. They are moving forward. As a matter of fact, I told the President of the Philippines this, that they are studying English. You see people on bicycles, carrying computers, they are studying economics, and they are going to move. Yet they are still repressed. It is still a Communist regime.

For example, there are over 39 Americans in prison there. Our State Department cannot even be present while they are convicted and going through court. I don't know how many of you recently saw Richard Gere in the current movie in China. That is the type of environment that they still have.

So this resolution is very, very important, I think, to send a clear message. We must engage, just like we do with China and Russia, but we need to send a loud and clear message.

Mr. ROHRBACHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER], and thank the gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM], who still remains my hero.

(Mr. BEREUTER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

□ 1500

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I do rise in strong support of H. Res. 231. I will be brief. I want to congratulate the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRBACHER] for his exceptional and dogged pursuit of human rights and economic freedom in Vietnam, and I am pleased to help expedite his resolution here.

The resolution correctly notes that several provinces in Vietnam have experienced anticorruption protests in recent months, a phenomenon that is quite remarkable for Vietnam. This Member would suggest that these protests should be considered to be a good sign by Americans, for it is clear that a great many Vietnamese people have had enough of corrupt local bureaucrats siphoning off the wealth of the nation.

This Member has also been informed that the protests have been sufficient to force the national government to deal with some of those corrupt officials. Certainly it will make it easier for U.S. businessmen to operate in Vietnam, and that is important, for this Member has heard several reports of numerous horror stories from U.S. business leaders about corruption in that country.

The resolution of the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRBACHER] rightly reaffirms U.S. support for political, religious and economic freedom in Vietnam and calls upon the government to permit free and fair elections where competing political parties are allowed to participate. These are basic freedoms that we can all support and we do support.

Mr. Speaker, I urge adoption of H. Res. 231.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ROHRBACHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute, just to summarize what this is all about.

I think if someone was paying attention to the last several resolutions that have come to the floor, one will note that there is a relationship between them, and that is, since the end of the cold war and during the cold war, our country had its divisions and they reflected themselves within the political battles that were going on throughout our country during the elections, various elections that took place. But since the end of the cold war, there has been a unanimity of opinion in the United States and a coming together of both conservatives and liberals, of Republican and Democrat, behind those traditional values that our Founding Fathers wanted to be the basis of our decisionmaking.

We are supposed to be on the side of the good guys. I mean, it is as simple as that. We should be on the side of the good guys. We should be on the side of the oppressed and those people who want more freedom and democracy and to treat people honestly and decently, and against the tyrants and the thugs of this world.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution goes to the heart of that. Whether it is Saddam Hussein or the dictatorship in Vietnam, we are on the side of democracy and human rights.

I would ask my colleagues to join me in support of this resolution.

Mr. DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my strong support for House Resolution 231, the sense of Congress regarding Vietnam, which urges the President to make clear to the Socialist Republic of Vietnam that we are committed to economic, religious, and political freedom for the people of Vietnam. As you know, the United States continues to open diplomatic relations with Vietnam. Because of the growing relationship the United States has with Vietnam, we must be concerned with its poor human rights record.

May 9, 1997 was the third anniversary of Vietnam Human Rights Day here in the United States. However, current human rights' conditions in Vietnam are poor. For example, religious leaders and political dissidents are still being arrested and jailed. Dr. Doan Viet Hoat and Dr. Nguyen Dan Que are two, among many political prisoners with serious medical conditions who are held in harsh conditions with little, if any, access to medical care.

Despite prohibitions on physical abuse, there is evidence that security officials beat detainees as well as use threats and other psychological coercion to elicit false confessions. The Vietnamese Government denies citizens the right to change their government and significantly restricts freedom of speech, the press, assembly, association, privacy, and religion. Vietnamese citizens are generally prohibited from contacting international human rights organizations.

Vietnam is currently negotiating a trade agreement with our Government to seek MFN status and privileges associated with Overseas Private Investment Corporation [OPIC]. In January 1997, the United States and Vietnam agreed on implementing the resettlement opportunity for Vietnamese returnees program allowing the United States to interview some of the Vietnamese returned from camps in Southeast Asia. However, this is not enough.

Child labor and human rights abuses are on the rise as well as the suppression of freedom of thought, speech, religion, press, and assembly. The Vietnamese-American community in my congressional district supports House Resolution 231. We believe that fair and open democratic elections, equal protection of all Vietnamese citizens, and the release of all political prisoners are basic and necessary steps beyond normalization.

Since this resolution is crucial to these objectives, I urge all of my colleagues to support House Resolution 231.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Mr. ROHRBACHER for introducing this resolution urging the President to make it clear to the Socialist Republic of Vietnam that America is committed to democracy, economic and religious freedom for the people of Vietnam.

Freedom is not bound by history or geography. Just as our forefathers said, people have certain inalienable rights. Democracy and basic civil liberties are not eastern or western—they are universal.

Regrettably, today, the people of Vietnam are not afforded these basic liberties. This Nation has a moral imperative to foster freedom and democracy and oppose tyranny wherever it appears—this legislation expresses that sentiment.

I support this resolution and call upon my colleagues to do so as well.

Mr. ROHRBACHER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SNOWBARGER). All time has expired.

The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. ROHRBACHER] that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, House Resolution 231, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING MONGOLIA

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 172) expressing the sense of Congress in support of efforts to foster friendship and cooperation between the United States and Mongolia, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. CON. RES. 172

Whereas in 1990, Mongolia renounced the Communist form of government and peacefully adopted a series of changes that linked economic development with democratic political reforms;

Whereas the Mongolian people have held 2 presidential elections and 3 parliamentary elections since 1990, all featuring vigorous campaigns by candidates from multiple political parties;

Whereas these elections have been free from violence, voter intimidation, and ballot irregularities, and the peaceful transfer of power from one Mongolian government to another has been successfully completed, demonstrating Mongolia's commitment to peace, stability, and the rule of law;

Whereas every Mongolian government since the end of communism has dedicated itself to promoting and protecting individual freedoms, the rule of law, respect for human rights, freedom of the press, and the principle of self-government, demonstrating that Mongolia is consolidating democratic gains and moving to institutionalize democratic processes;

Whereas Mongolia stands apart as one of the few countries in Asia that is truly a fully functioning democracy; its efforts to promote economic development through free market economic policies, while also promoting human rights and individual liberties, building democratic institutions, and protecting the environment, serve as a beacon to freethinking people throughout the region and the world;

Whereas Mongolia's commitment to democracy makes it a critical element in efforts to foster and maintain regional stability throughout central Asia;
